WHO AM I?

THE teacher announced to the class: "Pupils, your homework for today is this: to write your autobiography."

Roland Rabbit spoke up. "What's that? What's an au-to-bi-og-raphy?"

"Well, pupils," explained the teacher, "it means simply to write about yourself. Just write about what makes you tick. Just write about who you are. Lots of famous animals, like Davy Dog, the Indian Fighter and Harvey Horse, the Racing Champ and Sid Squirrel, the Army General, have written their autobiographies."

"But"—Roland Rabbit spoke up again—"We're not famous. Why should we write about ourselves?"

"Because I said so," the teacher said sharply. But then she smiled. "I bet you'll have fun. You might find out something about yourselves you never realized before."

Roland Rabbit was all wrapped up in the idea of his autobiography as he left the classroom. But how would he begin? At home he sat down and took his pencil in his paw. He couldn't think of anything to say. Finally he said aloud, "Well, who am I, anyway?" And then he answered himself, "Go ask your friends and maybe you'll find out."

So, over to Felix Frog's house Roland ran. "Felix," he asked, "Who am I?"

"Gee, have you lost your memory, Roland? You're Roland Rabbit."

"Oh, I know that, Felix. But what I mean is . . . what do you think of me?"

"Well, lemme see, I guess I think you're lots of fun."

"Hmmm. Lots of fun, eh?" And Roland left, to seek another opinion from Glenn Groundhog. "Glenn, what do you think of me?"

"You're very nice," replied Glenn.

"Hmmm. Lots of fun, and very nice." And next Roland went to someone who was not his friend. He and Phil were enemies. "Phil," he asked, "What do you think of me?"

The fox answered, "You're a coward."

"Hmmm. Lots of fun, very nice, and a coward." Roland was beginning to get a little confused from all the different opinions, but he kept on. He went to Walt Weasel's house and asked him, "What do you think of me?"

"Oh, you're a real wild guy," came the reply.

"Hmmm. Lots of fun . . . very nice . . . coward . . . real wild guy." And it was Patrick Pussy who told him, a few minutes later, "I think you're sort of shy."

"Hmmm. Lots of fun . . . very nice . . . coward . . . real wild guy . . . sort of shy." Then Henry Hyena told him he was a bore, and another enemy, Willy Wolf, told him he was a rascal, and an old friend he didn't speak to any more, Dexter Duck, told him he was a liar and a traitor. But to make up for that his best pal, Larry Lamb, told him he was the most wonderful animal in the world.

When he got home, Roland Rabbit sat down and wrote out a list. LOTS OF FUN . . . VERY NICE . . .COWARD . . . REAL WILD GUY . . . BORE . . .SHY . . .RASCAL . . . LIAR . . . TRAITOR . . . THE MOST WONDERFUL ANIMAL IN THE WORLD.

Roland was so upset and bewildered by this strange list that he ran right over to the wisest person in town, old Oliver Owl. He explained the situation to Mr. Owl, and then asked, "Who am I?"

The old owl smiled. Then he spoke slowly, with one wise eye closed. "When I was just your age, I tried to find out who I was. I asked everybody to help me, and then when I got home I wrote a little poem. Would you like to hear it?"

Roland nodded his head, and Oliver Owl closed both eyes to remember his verse:

"The thing which makes myself be me
Is called my personality.
It's the me I show to all my friends . . .
But when I'm home alone, it ends.
For, home alone, this thing called 'I'
Has no way to identify
Itself except to try to find
What's going on inside its mind."

Roland thanked the owl and went home, to be alone with his thoughts. The owl's advice had seemed excellent to him. But when he looked inside his mind, he was even more confused. He had more opinions about himself than other people had. He thought of all the things he'd done. He thought of all the things he'd said. He thought of all the things he'd thought. He thought of all the things he was proud of and all the things he was ashamed of. He knew that he could be mean, and that he could be sweet, and that sometimes he was clever, and sometimes he was stupid. He had just about decided to give up ever being able to write his autobiography, when a poem occurred to him. So the next day he brought it in to school.

When the teacher read it, she smiled and said, "This is short, Roland, but it's the best autobiography I've read in this class." And then she read it out loud:

"This is my autobiography:
There's so many things which make me be
The person that I think is me
I'll wait 'til I grow up to see
Which of these things will 'specially
Make me the me I want to be."

Read why DAISY is the RIGHT GUN

For EARLY TRAINING and FUN . . .

Since 1888 Daisy Air Rifles have used the same safer spring-type action—the safer short range—the safer low "factory limited" power! Today Daisys are approved for the marksmanship programs of National Rifle Association, the Boy Scouts of America. Today Daisys are used in schools, camps, air rifle clubs and homes to teach proper gun handling faster, more safely, more economically. Daisy is the accepted "first" gun.

Many Dads enjoy using the Daisy for inexpensive home target practice. Daisy shooting is also F-U-N for the whole family—from seven to seventy years old!

Buy your junior a Daisy and teach safety through skill. See Daisy Air Rifles on display today at your favorite hardware, sports goods or department store. Mail coupon now for instructive, free Daisy literature!

OTHER DAISY TRAINING ADVANTAGES

It's easy and fun to train juniors with a famous Daisy because: (1) the official NRA spring-type range is only 15 feet—shorter than your auto; a garage or 20′ room will do; (2) store cartons filled up with old magazines make a safe backstop; (3) a Daisy costs as little as $5.95; (4) ammunition costs only 5¢ for about 125 shots.

Free 32-PAGE GUN BOOK • 20-PAGE CLUB BROCHURE • CATALOG

GUN BOOK: Gun Section pictures America's most famous historical rifles and pistols each described by gun collector authority. Also explains how a Daisy works. Lists NRA Qualification Course for BB guns, shows NRA BB gun medals!

CLUB BROCHURE: Big 20-page Book tells how to organize, conduct a junior air rifle club; explains how parents, children, communities benefit from this popular new 15 foot spring-type air rifle marksmanship program. Write now!

IMPORTANT! Because Daisys are often confused with other type air rifles, we emphasize: Daisy is NOT a high-power pneumatic, gas, pellet or compressed air gun. It cannot be "pumped up" to increase power. It has always been a spring-action, short range, low power, low-priced BB gun—best for training boys and girls seven through fourteen.

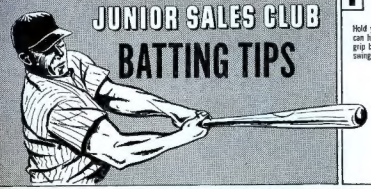
BATTING TIPS



1 CORRECT GRIP FOR SWING HITTER

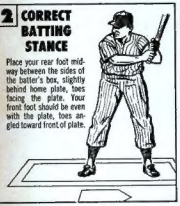
Hold your bat at the end. You can hit a longer ball with this grip because you have a fuller swing and follow-through.

CORRECT GRIP FOR CHOKE HITTER

Hold the bat several inches up the handle. This grip doesn't drive the ball as far as the swing grip because the swing is not as full; gives more control, allows you to place hits better.

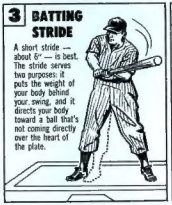
2 CORRECT BATTING STANCE

Place your rear foot midway between the sides of the batter's box, slightly behind home plate, toes facing the plate. Your front foot should be even with the plate, toes angled toward front of plate.



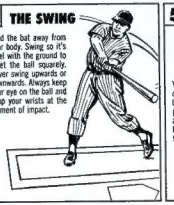
3 BATTING STRIDE

A short stride — about 6" — is best. The stride serves two purposes: it puts the weight of your body behind your swing, and it directs your body toward a ball that's not coming directly over the heart of the plate.



4 THE SWING

Hold the bat away from your body. Swing so it's level with the ground to meet the ball squarely. Never swing upwards or downwards. Always keep your eye on the ball and snap your wrists at the moment of impact.



5 COMPLETE FOLLOW-THROUGH

Your power and control come from your wrists. Complete follow-through gives ball more speed and distance. Remember, practice makes perfect!
